The Old Woodcarver

We decided to travel to see a veteren woodcarver. My dad wanted him to make a tobaggan like the one Dad owned when he was a child. We drove down a long suburben road. When we got out of the car, a beagel ran from behind the house, followed by the woodcarver. He carried an example of a tiny sled made of metal. "Don't worry," he said with a chuckle, "your sled will be wooden." He pulled a chisle out of his pocket. "Would you like to learn how to carve?" he asked. "I may seem like an old fossel to you," he said. "I'm probably double your father's age, but I'm pretty handy with a chisel."

"Sure," I said, "that's a great idea!
